Welcome to the College of Business
To schedule your initial advising appointment, it’s necessary that you view this entire presentation, which highlights important College of Business policies.

We encourage you to return to this presentation as you progress through your degree as a reminder of the requirements.

At the end of the presentation is a link to a brief survey to confirm your participation. Your advisor will send an email to your OSU email address with instructions on scheduling your initial advising appointment.

Write down the code provided in the survey to schedule your appointment.
What to Do with Your Business Major

A degree from OSU’s College of Business will provide you many skills that you’ll use at work on a daily basis.

You can expect your business degree to include elements of communication, leadership, project management, teamwork, time management, fiscal responsibility, innovation, and more.

Students who earn the Business Administration degree are prepared for a wide range of careers.

Graduates can pursue opportunities in marketing research, human resources, management, corporate training or to start a business of their own.

Ask your advisor to guide you toward more information on the five options you can add to the Business Administration major as you may also want to work with your advisor on how these will fit into your degree plan.

• Digital Marketing
• General Business
• Marketing
• Retain Management
• Supply Chain & Logistics Management
The College of Business has approximately 80 teaching faculty dedicated to our undergraduate students.

Faculty not only teach in their area of expertise, they also have experience in the workforce and bring relevant examples into the learning space.

Students who have work experience are encouraged to share it in the virtual classroom to create an interactive environment.

Your professors want to be engaged in your education, and you are strongly encouraged to contact them with any questions or concerns.
The College of Business has its own Career Success Center providing a variety of career planning tools. Whether you wish to advance within your own company or start a new career, the career center can assist with:

- Career exploration
- Career planning
- Resume writing
- Cover letter writing
- Interviewing
- Internship search
- Career coaching
- Job search strategy
- Workshops
- Recruiting events
- Networking
The college has a full-time advisor, dedicated specifically to your online academic success.

To make the most of your advising experience make regular appointments, at least once per quarter, to ensure you’re on track with your courses.

You can call the College of Business Advising Office (541-737-3716) to set up a time or can easily schedule online. You can find the link to schedule an appointment in your advisor’s email signature. They are also available to meet with you through video conferencing upon request.

When you schedule your appointment, clarify that you’re an online student. The Advising Office is open 8 a.m. – 5 p.m. PST, Monday through Friday. Should you wish to schedule outside of these hours, refer to the online scheduler or directly email your advisor. (Scheduling via email may be delayed due to differences in time zones and working hours.)
The College of Business is the only college on campus with its own Code of Honor. This code was created by the students within the College of Business and is strictly enforced. The oath is that our behavior is guided by three core values: integrity, respect and responsibility. Through the application of these values, we uphold the reputation of our institution and strive to succeed in our public and private lives.

All students must review and accept the Code of Honor before being allowed into their professional program. Academic honesty at the university is expected and action will be taken should you break the academic policies. Should a student fail to abide by the academic policies twice, he may jeopardize his ability to remain in the College of Business.
